Terrific Tornado Creates Frightful Destruction

Tornado in Southern States Takes Terrible Toll of Life and Property

Dead Numbers Over 100, While Property Damage Is Estimated at 50,000,000 Dollars. Tragic Stories Are Told of Storm's Destruction.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 29.—Loss of life in a tornado that swept Northern Ohio late Saturday, amounts to probably one hundred. The greatest loss occurred at Loraine where latest counts show nine dead and 118 injured, a score of whom are suffering from serious injuries. Property loss is upwards of thirty million dollars. One hundred and twenty-five city blocks have been demolished. Seventeen thousand people are homeless. Seven fatalities occurred in Cleveland and five in Pittsburgh. While Nantua has three dead and Akron one dead. Total in Iowa and Illinois is twelve, making total known the second floor. With a velocity of 85 miles an hour the wind blew street cars from tracks, overturned and hurled automobiles to curb, twisted telegraph poles and whipped them across streets and on roofs. What is left of the city is beyond repair.

PEORIA, Ills., June 28.—Eight persons were killed and scores injured in a tornado which broke over Peoria and surrounding territory early reports. The bodies of a woman and her baby were found in a field far from their home at Cloverdale and at Morton two are reported killed and many injured.

Yacht Racing

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 28.—The last yacht of the fourteen which started last Saturday in the race from New London, Conn., to Hamilton, crossed the finish line here yesterday morning. The winners of the race were announced last night as follows: Memory, R.J. Bavler, Master. The indivision is awarded the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club Cup and the yachting cup for all classes. In class B the Hutoka, George B. Drake, Master, wins the New Haven Yacht Club Cup and in class C the Lloyd W. Berry, Herbert L. Stone, Master, is declared the winner, with the Micco, H.E.H. Hall, Master second. The second race over the course from New London to Bermuda was an exceedingly fast and interesting one. The yachtsmen report that it was sailed in light to moderate breezes and was made more interesting by the fact that throughout almost every boat had its competitor in sight. The yachts were becalmed in the Gulf Stream for seven hours Monday afternoon and evening but at night the wind freshened to about twenty-five miles an hour. The blow was accompanied by hard squalls which made it necessary to shorten sails or to lower mainsails.

Exposure Of Dope Conspirators

PARIS, June 28.—The appearance in a Paris police court of one of the largest dope rings exposed in recent years is reported by the Paris Herald. Among its members, the paper says, is Count Henry De Baurepatre whose wife is the former Mrs. Ferris Thompson, of Cincinnati. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months imprisonment and a fine of four thousand francs. The Herald says that the leader of the gang, Count De Delhorto, who operated from Marseilles, escaped, but his Paris agent was sentenced to a prison term. Demanding the maximum punishment for the members of the ring the prosecuting attorney described them as "a gang of pleasure loving idlers," and "persons in high position of life who are doing their best to give France a bad name in the eyes of the world."

Official Landing of Earl and Countess Haig was Splendidly Carried Out

Thousands Line Streets and Wharf as Distinguished Visitors Reach Shore from Caronia

The Cunard liner Caronia, having less Haig with a beautiful bouquet on behalf of the G. W. V. A. Boarding the Governor's car, the party then drove to Government House, where they were received by His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardye. The route from the wharf was lined on both sides by ex-soldiers, brigades

The official landing was scheduled for 9.30 and long before that hour thousands of people had gathered at every vantage point to see and welcome the distinguished visitors.

The landing was made at the King's wharf, where was lined up a guard of honor under Capt. Eric Chafe, M. C. At the appointed hour the launch of H.M.S. Constance, with the Earl and party, accompanied by Lt. Col Nangle, President of the G.W.V.A., arrived at the landing and were met by the Prime Minister, the leader of the Opposition, The Mayor and Councilors, Capt. Campbell, H.M.S. Constance, Capt. Huan, Ville D's, Commander Wallason, U.S.S. Lawrence, Commander Thompson, U.S.S. Hatsfield, Commander Parker, U.S.S. Brooke American Consul Hardarger, Vice Consul T. V. Hartnett, French Consul, Mons. E. T. de Berugard, the Chief Justice and Lady Horwood, the Inspector General and the Superintendent of Police, the executive of the G.W.V.A. and the Veterans' Week committee.

Field Marshal Haig inspected the guard, with which he was very pleased, and expressed himself as such to Capt. Chafe. Noticing in the ranks Sergt. T. Ricketts, V.C., Earl Haig stopped and spoke to him. Those on the wharf were then introduced after which Col. Nangle presented Count-

Girl Guides and Scouts. Afterwards the visitors attended the Memorial Service at the C. of E. Cathedral. As soon as the party had passed through, the various detachments broke off separately and went to the respective churches for the services. The weather conditions were ideal and the scene presented was an imposing one.

A Coronet Of Shame OR FROM GLOOM TO SUNLIGHT

CHAPTER VIII.

"You Love Me," She said

"I want to give you this," he said; and his voice sounded almost stern with his effort at self-restraint.

Jess took it without a word, and tried to fix it in the bosom of her dress; but, somehow, he fingers seemed to tremble, and she let the flower fall. He stooped and picked it up.

"May I?" he said, looking at her.

She raised her eyes to his. Something in them made her own eyes droop. He put the flower in its place, and as she raised her hand to help him, their hands touched. His fingers closed over hers, and held them, and he stood looking into her face pleadingly, anxiously.

"Jess!" he whispered. Then he remembered that she was here as his father's guest, that he must not make love to her now. "Jess," he said, "I want to speak to—I have something to tell you—I must not say it now, here. Will you let me meet you to-morrow—by the Raven—where we parted? Jess—Miss Newton, don't be angry! You will listen to me? You will come?"

Jess looked at him, then away, with a troubled look, half startled, questioning.

"I will come!" she said, at last, in a voice so low that he had to bend forward to hear her.

He took her hand, and half raised to his lips, then he arrested its progress.

"I must not! I have no right—yet! But to-morrow! You will come?"

The rest of the evening—when they had returned to the drawing-room—and until the hour of departure came, was passed by Jess as if she were in a dream. She knew that Lord Ravenhurst was always near her—though he scarcely spoke—and that his nearness seemed like a protection, a shield against her own nervousness and abstraction; she knew, as she and her father said "good night" in the hall, that it was Lord Ravenhurst who escorted her to the carriage, and she heard him whisper: "I will be there at eleven; you will come?" and, though she could not speak, her silence answered for her.

She leaned back in the carriage and closed her eyes; a mist seemed to surround them, shutting her off from even her father, whom she had learned to love, and from whom she had thought never to be divided.

"Tired, Jess?" asked Mr. Newton. "No—yes," she said with a little start; her voice sounding in her own ears as if it belonged to some one else.

"It has been a pleasant evening," he said. "That kind of people can be very charming—when they like. One feels as if one were under a spell; but I suspect that it is all 'theatre,' as the French say. Men and women of their rank acquire that peculiar manner from their birth, and it fits them as their clothes, and furniture, and houses do. One must be careful not to attach too much value to it; and most of all, to guard against being deceived."

Her father's words jarred upon Jess.

"Do you mean that they did not mean to be kind, that—that it was false, father?" she asked in a low voice.

He smiled grimly.

"I won't go as far as that, Jess," he said. "Yes, they want to be kind; but to be kind and amiable and charming is their business in life, and one must remember that they treat all alike. If the Burgesses or the Browns were dining there to-morrow, the Clansmores would treat them just the same."

Jess shivered a little; then a smile and a beautiful smile, swept over her face. Ah, no, Lord Ravenhurst would not treat them, would not speak to them, as he had spoken to her! She knew that.

Tired as she was, she slept little that night. Why should she sleep when it was ecstasy to lie awake and recall his face, lighted up with love, to repeat his words, glowing with love's music?

She was paler than usual when she came down to breakfast, and Mr. Newton looked at her gravely.

"To much dissipation, Jess," he said, shaking his head. "I shall have to take you up to London for quiet and rest. You had better go and lie down this morning and try and sleep; there are never too many roses in your cheeks, but I don't like to see you so much like a lily."

There were plenty of roses in her face as she bent over and kissed him.

"I will rest this afternoon, dear," she said in a low voice.

He nodded, and turned to his letters. They were numerous this morning, for he did not speak again, and went off to his library very soon.

Jess went into the garden and wandered among the flowers until it was time to start for the river. It never occurred to her that Lord Ravenhurst had been overbold in asking her to meet him; no did it seem in any way wrong that she should do so. She had not gone through the enlightening fire of a London season, had no mother to tell her that if Lord Ravenhurst wished to propose to her he should come to her father's house. It seemed right and natural to her that he should want to meet her, just where they met the other day, beside the bawling river, within sight of the rock from which he had rescued her.

Still, her hands trembled and quivered as she put on her hat. And how swiftly the red came and went in her face, as she looked into the glass, as if to discover why this king among men had chosen her for his heart's queen! Was she pretty, real pretty? she wondered. Surely, surely he must have men women ten times more beautiful than herself; women who were brilliant and clever, as well as beautiful; women who were a thousand times worthier of being his—his wife! As she went down the stairs, she paused a moment at the library door. What would her father say when she came back and told him? Would he be glad or sorry? He had said that he hated the class to which Lord Ravenhurst belonged; but one may hate a class, and yet like a single member of it; and who could help liking, admiring, her hero, her king?

It was a lovely morning, the sun was shining, not glaringly, but softly, through a break of heavy clouds; the river, fined down now, ran like a blue ribbon through the meadows, the trees were clothed in summer garb. The birds sang from a copse on the other bank, with a joyousness which seemed to Jess to have a new and subtle note in its music. She looked round and drew a long breath, and felt as if the world had taken to itself a new beauty. Something was singing in her heart in harmony with the song of the birds, and the ripple of the river. Oh, Love! Love! of all the gifts of the gods to the children of men, thou art the most precious and the most divine!

As she came in sight of the spot where he had waded ashore with her she saw him; and as he came toward her, her heart seemed to stop for a second, then throbbed fiercely.

He came forward with both hands outstretched, but he dropped one as if he would not presume too much, not take all for granted.

"You have come!" he said in a low voice, his eyes seeking her face eagerly, anxiously.

"Yes," she murmured, with lowered lids; "I said I would come. Did you think—"

"No; I knew you would keep a promise, however quickly, however lightly made. I seem to know you so well already! But I feared at times that your father would—that you would perhaps tell him, and that he would forbid you. If I have done wrong in asking you to meet me, for give me, I wanted to speak last night—but that would have been wrong, unfair."

They had walked on slowly side by side; Jess still with downcast eyes, his drawn to her face.

"And—now that we have met," he went on after a pause, a moment or two of silence in which Jess wondered whether he would hear the beating of her heart—"I am almost afraid to tell you! It seems too great a thing to ask you—Miss Newton. Jess—may I call you Jess?"

She did not forbid him—did not speak.

"I want to tell you that I love you. I want to ask you to be my wife."

Her topped—they had reached a little clump of riverside trees—and looked down at her. His face was pale and grave, and there was love's uncertainty, love's suspense, shining in his dark eyes.

"I love you with all my heart and soul, Jess, and if you will say 'Yes!' you will make me the happiest of men. Oh, my dear, try to say 'Yes,' there is no other woman in the world for me but you!"

"I ought not to have told you so soon, so suddenly," he went on in a lower voice, one of pleading excuse. "It must seem rough—and and foolhardy for me to speak to you, when we know so little of each other; but I—I can scarcely believe that we met for the first time only the other day, and we have spent such a little time together. I suppose it is because I have thought of you so much, because I love you so, that it seems ages since the day we came down together. If you loved me as I love you, you would understand, Jess!"

She was silent, still looking away from him, and he took her hand gently, and yet with suppressed eagerness.

"Speak to me, Jess! I love you! I want you to be my wife!"

"What shall I say?" she whispered, rather in her own heart than to him.

He bent nearer.

"Say that you will. Say that you love me."

Jess looked at him for a fleeting moment, and then at the ledge again.

Years of Patient Service
Bring Peace and Content

EDMONTON, Alta., June 27 (AP)—Thirty years ago a young French priest, fresh from his native Brittany, left the little village of Edmonton in a rough wagon and penetrated into the north to minister to the Indians and the few white settlers of that great frontier.

Recently a venerable French priest, bearded and tanned, and marked with years of patient effort in a rough and uncultivated territory reached Edmonton on his way to his native Brittany. Father Vacher, beloved and respected throughout the northland, is taking his first vacation.

Through all those years Father Vacher has preached and taught and lived religion for the benefit of his people of the north. Not always has he been in the one place, but several of the Catholic missions of that great region, have enjoyed the benefit of his words of counsel and benediction.

Now he will return to Brittany, breathe once more the air of his child-

Proceedings of The Diocesan Synod

Saturday, June 28th, 1924.
Pursuant to adjournment, the Synod re-assembled at 3.30 p.m. Prayers were read by the President and the House proceeded to business.

Rev. G. Elliott submitted names for a special committee in connection with the obtaining of data and to formulate some form of insurance scheme upon the plan known as the "mutual" plan and to report at the next session, as follows:—Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, Rev. G. Elliott, J. C. Hodder, Esq., W. W. Blackall, Esq., P.A., D.C.L., C. B. Dicks, Esq., with power to add to their number. On being seconded the House agreed.

Rev. Canon Bolt having previously given notice moved that the Executive Committee, be given power to consolidate the Constitution and Rules of the Synod. On motion it was agreed.

Rev. Canon Bolt moved the suspension of the Rules for the remainder of the Synod. On being seconded the House agreed.

Rev. Canon Bolt presented the report of the Special Committee appointed at the last session to draft a reply in answer to the kind resolution of greeting of the Methodist Conference, and moved that it be received. On being seconded the report was unanimously adopted, and the Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to convey our greetings to the Conference. The Secretary consented to this, and the resolution follows:—

DIOCESAN SYNOD OF N.F.L.D.
We, the Bishop, Clergy and Lay Representatives of the Church of England in Newfoundland in Synod convened, gladly and gratefully acknowledge the kind message of greeting from the members of the Methodist Conference, now in session.
We particularly welcome your reference to the historical associations, which carry us back to the time of John Wesley, and to the days before the separation, created by the unfortunate circumstances of that time, which we all to-day regret.

We acknowledge with deep thankfulness to God the noble part you have taken in the work of the Kingdom, and it is a comforting sign of our time, that there are not lacking evidences on all sides of a growing desire on the part of Christian people to repair the breaches of the past. This desire must become greater in proportion to an increase of deepened spirituality and devotion to our Divine Lord.

Those who most truly love and serve our Lord Jesus Christ, are they who most earnestly long that our unhappy division should cease, and who fervently pray for the coming of that day, when we, and all who call themselves Christians by the guidance of the Holy Spirit may be obedient to the prayer of the Great Head of the Church, that "all may be one."

WILLIAM NEWFOUNDLAND.

President,
GEO. H. BOLT,
Clerical Secretary.

Synod Hall,

St. John's, June 28, 1924.

The House having discussed for some time the question of the Synod expressing its approval of the establishment of a proposed Junior University College in conjunction with one year by some special means, rather than that they should be taken from the Synod moneys.

It further recommends that to begin with the appointment be made for one year. On being seconded the House unanimously agreed.

Dr. Blackall moved the following resolution of which he had previously given notice, that "The Synod is deeply grateful to the Lay Readers of the Diocese for the liberal services rendered by them during the past two years and prays that God may bless their work and give to them happiness, and that copies be sent to them by the Secretary-Treasurer."

The motion being seconded the House agreed by acclamation.

Tulk, passed at yesterday's session:—His Lordship the Bishop, Rev. E. A. Tulk, R.D. Canon Bolt, Rev. Canon Jeeves, Rev. E. J. R. Nichols, Rev. A.B.S. Stirling, Rev. J.B. Elliott, Rev. power to add to their number.

Reveals Monroe-Morine Deception

The So-called Retrenchment Party to Waste $40,000 on "Watchful" in Bonavista Bay as an Additional Steamer, When They Condemned, as Extravagance, the Malakoff Which Served Trinity and Bonavista Bay. Monroe-Morine's Action a Dastardly Insult to Public Opinion.

How Monroe Pays His Torv Heelers

Editor Advocate,
St. John's.

Dear Sir,—The Morine-Crosbie-Monroe combination who so deceived the people in some parts of the country as a clean-up and retrenchment party, has determined to live up to the record of the Tory regimes of 1897-1900 and 1909-1917 by wasting public monies in all sorts of operations to give jobs to their political heelers.

The latest is their decision to place the S. S. Watchful on Bonavista Bay and adding another steamer to the list of bay steamers. The Liberal Party cut off three steamers north and saved $100,000 per year by so doing. The Watchful will cost $40,000 per season to run, as she is an expensive boat, and consumes three times as much coal as the Malakoff. This means $40,000 more public monies must be collected or found to supply jobs to a dozen political heelers who supported Monroe in 1923 and 1924. These heelers will be taken from the Tory Committee that demanded in 1922 and 1923 the cutting out of the Malakoff in order to reduce taxation.

The second object is to cripple if possible the trade of Port Union and the Union stores in Bonavista Bay by cutting off direct connections with Port Union. This may appear smart on the part of Monroe and Morine, but the body of the fishermen of Bonavista District will not favourably view any effort to cripple Port Union or the Trading Co. stores. Such contemptible conduct will bring upon the perpetrators the punishment such conduct deserves.

Will the electors of Bonavista and the Country look favourably upon an uncalled for expenditure of $40,000 per season, which cannot provide any better service than the one carried out the past five or six years?

Will they look calmly on when they see Monroe spending $40,000 per year to supply jobs for a dozen of his political heelers who travelled this country in 1923 in the guise of United Fishermen, proclaiming that they stood for retrenchment and the reduction of taxation, and for a saving in the cost of bay steam service?

Will the intelligent electors hesitate to decide just what a make up this man Monroe is, and how deliberately he deceived the people of Newfoundland, especially the voters of Bonavista, Hr. Grace, St. John's, Ferryland, Hr. Main and Placentia? He has shown his hand by placing Morine in real charge of the Government and again by insulting public opinion regarding retrenchment by wasting $40,000 per year to give jobs to heelers that gave him support in 1923 election because of promise of jobs and pickings.

I hear Capt. Field is to be removed from the command of the Prospero and replaced by a Monroe heeler.

I hear that Capt. Dav is also to be laid aside to make a job for another Monroe heeler in Bonavista Bay.

Let Monroe and Morine try this game and see where they will come off. Let them bear in mind where Morine came off in 1900 and 1898, if they will not learn a lesson from the treatment meted out to the greatest scoundrel that ever entered the Narrows. They can wait and see, for just as sure as the sun shines, punishment sure and swift will descend upon them. They are only three weeks a gov-

Making Jobs For Political Heelers

Editor Advocate.

St. John's.

Dear Sir,—Monroe has started his dirty work of dismissing officials in Bonavista district, replacing them with political heelers and ex-officials dismissed for breach of official duty.

One case is the postmaster at Gooseberry Island, who was dismissed by the late government for certain reasons apart from political partisanship.

The man W. S. Monroe, (nominal Prime Minister—the instrument of A. B. Morine, the deceiver of the electors, the man who wanted nothing and would take nothing; but who took the dredge from its proper work the day after he became prime minister and dredged his own premises)—that little pimp is the creature that impudently ousts an official who has performed his duties properly and with general satisfaction, and replaced him by a person who gave needless offence to many of the public at Gooseberry Island, and performed his duties in a manner that called for his dismissal. Such is W. S. Monroe.

Yours truly,
ELECTOR.

Memorial Service at C. E. Cathedral

This service was attended in State by Field Marshal Earl Haig, who, with His Excellency the Governor and suite, arrived before 11 o'clock. At eleven exactly the procession headed by the Cross bearer, and the Union Jack borne (which was deposited on the Altar during the service), and consisting of the Cathedral choir, the Clergy attending the Synod the Rural Deans of the Cathedral, Chapter I., with the Bishop, preceded by his Chaplain, Rev. J. Brinton, carrying the Pastoral Staff, at the rear, entered by the west door. During the procession the Dead March in Saul was played slowly and solemnly.

Prayers were offered for the repose of the soul of those who had laid down their lives in the War and for the King, after which the service proceeded with special Psalms, (XCV, CXLVI, CL) and Lessons (II. Chron. XVIII, 6-16 and Rev. XV). Canon Jeeves preached a short Sermon from Joshua XXIV, 27 "This stone shall be a witness against us . . . lest ye deny your God." The tendency to call upon God during times of stress, is no less marked than the proneness to forget God in times of peace. The memory of our victory and escape in the late war should always prevent us from forgetting that it was the Hand of God that brought us through these years of danger.

At the close of the service the C. L.B. band played "God Save the King" and the Bishop pronounced the Benediction. A vast congregation filled every available corner of the spacious building.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, MONDAY, JUNE 30th., 1924

FIELD MARSHAL THE EARL HAIG,
K.T., O.M., G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.I.E., etc., etc.

Welcome To Lord And Lady Haig

All Newfoundland joins in the whole-hearted welcome accorded to our distinguished visitors, Lord and Lady Haig, by so many thousands of our citizens yesterday morning.

The coming to Newfoundland of the Empire's foremost and greatest soldier, whose name ranks equally with the names of the most outstanding soldier and sailor heroes of Britain's past history, marks an epochal moment in our island's history, and is an honoring and most fitting sequel to the sacrifices that our country's sons laid on the altar of the Empire.

The visit of Field Marshal Haig to Terra Nova to unveil the memorial erected to those who gave their lives for their country, for freedom and for the future peace of the world, is recognised as not only a high tribute to those gallant dead, which he commanded, and to the survivors of the greatest conflict from which mankind has ever suffered; it is a distinguished tribute to Terra Nova, the oldest of Britain's ancient colonies, the corner-stone of Britain's Empire.

The going forth of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and the participation of our Royal Naval Reservists in the exploits of the British Navy united so firmly the bonds existing between this island home and the Mother Country that they can never be broken. Lord Haig, under whose masterful command Providence guided the Empire's forces to victory, will set on tomorrow the seal of a splendid unity between us and the Mother Country, a unity made resplendent by the sacrifices of the Empire's sons in the common cause of freedom and international justice. The Field Marshal will unveil a memorial that, like our rugged coast line, will stand down through the future years, in the bright days of summer and the storms of winter, not only as the symbol of remembrance of those who proved themselves "better than the best," but as an appeal to present and future generations to see to it that sacrifices, so greatly and faithfully given, will not have been made in vain.

As a contemporary has said, it is not "to re-awaken warlike feelings or to sound the call to arms" that the Commander-in-Chief has come. Britain's great soldier chief joins with Newfoundland in this country's respect to her brave dead, and his mission may be construed not as a "call to arms" but as a "call to duty"; the duty which we owe to those who died, to those who paid lesser but yet stupendous sacrifices in the great war, and to Terra Nova.

Occasion never required Nelson or Wellington, Roberts or Kitchener to visit our shores. To-day, we have Lord Haig, whose name is marked not less indelibly on Britain's pages of fame. To him and to Lady Haig, whose untiring war services on behalf of the wounded and the bereaved are so well-known throughout the Empire, we are pleased to extend a hearty welcome, and trust that their sojourn in our island home, although unpreventably arduous during the next few days, will be nevertheless pleasant and enjoyable to them.

In Memoriam

JULY 1st, 1916.

"Thy Brother shall rise again."

With proud thanksgiving, a mother for her children,
Newfoundland mourns her dead across the sea.
Flesh of her flesh they were, spirit of her spirit,
Fallen in the cause of the free.

They went with songs to the battle, they were young,
Straight of limb, true of eye, steady and aglow,
They were staunch, to the end against odds uncounted;
They fell with their faces to the foe.

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

They mingle not with their laughing comrades again;
They sit no more at familiar tables of home;
They have no lot in our labour of the day-time;
They sleep beyond England's foam.

But where our desires are and our hopes profound,
Felt as a well-spring that is hidden from sight,
To the innermost heart of their own land they are known As the stars are known to the night.

—LAURENCE BINYON.

The Archbishop's Secretary Writes

The Editor,

"The Evening Advocate."

Dear Sir,—I am asked by His Grace the Archbishop of St. John's to state that the item which appeared in "The Daily News" this morning headed "To Represent Archbishop" was entirely unauthorised. His Grace further desires me to add that he knew nothing whatever about the arrangement "for the Roman Catholic part of the Memorial consecration" until he read it in this morning's paper.

I should be grateful if you would kindly give the courtesy of your columns to this explanation.

Faithfully yours,

P. J. KENNEDY,
Secretary.

Rev. Dr. Power In Impressive Sermon at The Kirk

The Rev. Dr. Power preached a most impressive sermon to a large congregation at the Kirk last night.

Dr. Power drew a parallel between ancient history and the days that are.
When the enemy is at the gates, the national spirit always rises to greater and more noble heights of sacrifice for and devotion to high ideals. When the enemy recedes history shows that men are apt to go back to conditions existing before the days of actual crisis were upon them.

The world, said Dr. Power, had reached a critical period in its history, and the future could only tell whether or not a new standard of international law would be completely established, unveiling ceremony will begin at 11 years from 1914 to 1918 on behalf of a new world, when peace shall always reign, would be accomplished.

In all her great history, Britain had never reached heights of such sacrifices as during these years and it was a proud fact that the Mother Country was foremost in the advancement of the League of Nations for the establishment of a new internationalism as a safeguard against the terrible tragedy of war. Newfoundland soldiers and sailors, their parents and citizens generally had made sacrifices in life, effort and financially, when the Hun was at the gate. Were we seeing to it that such sacrifices were not in vain, or were we merely forgetting? Dr. Power expressed the hope that the pledges made for a better world, where peace would triumph, would be fulfilled, and that this week of commemoration would be helpful towards a recognition of our duty in advancement towards that end.

During the Service, the Preacher referred to the rumour that Field Marshal Lord Haig was to attend the Services last night at the Kirk. The Field Marshal is a member of the Presbyterian Church and takes an active part in relation to Church work. Dr. Power expressed his regret that Lord Haig was unable to be present to join in the Kirk services.

POLICE COURT

A BUSY MONDAY MORNING.

There were seven arrests for drunkenness Saturday, and yesterday.
Friends of five of the parties deposited the necessary five dollars and they were released.

A girl who has no home and apparently refuses to mend her ways, was sent down for 30 days on a charge of being a loose and disorderly person.

Thomas Toolen, a Liverpool Irishman, stowed away on the Sachem this trip. He claimed he was under the influence when he boarded the ship at Liverpool, and when he woke up he was on the high seas. The Chief Officer of the Sachem didn't think that Thomas was so full as he would have the Court believe. Toolen was remanded until the Sachem returns here when he will be sent back.

A well-known boiler maker arrested
Saturday night, asked Judge Morris to give him a chance to take in the Halg festivities. He was released on condition that he takes the pledge.

A printer who attempted to assault
a 16 year old girl at her home, Quidi Vidi Road, last night, was sentenced to six months imprisonment. The man is apparently insane, and the Court in passing sentence said that the accused should be examined by a doctor and if found non compos mentis will be sent to the Asylum.

Carl Goddard of Boston has created somewhat of a sensation in police circles during the past few days. He was first reported from Whitbourne heading cityward. His next stop was Holyrood, where he became "unconscious." A motor car had to be provided to bring him to the City and to the General Hospital. Last night he started to clean up the ward. He told Judge Morris this morning that he wanted to get back to his folks.
The American Consul will be asked to assist Mr. Goddard to get back to the old home town.

Methodist Conference

SATURDAY, JUNE 28th.
The report of the Sustenance Fund (Home Missions) showed receipts by districts, of balance $10,000; St. John's, $607; Carbonear, $235; Bonavista, $152; Wesleyville, $138; Twillingate, $234; Grand Falls, $152; Burin, $145; a total of $1,673.00.
The expenditures to supply deficits the salaries of Home Missionaries was:
Pouch Cove ..... $194.00
Clarke's Beach ..... 39.00
Harbour Grace ..... 290.00
Victoria ..... 163.00
Freshwater ..... 390.00
Western Bay ..... 40.00
Lower Island Cove ..... 46.00
Old Perlican ..... 340.00
Hant's Harbour ..... 34.00
Fortune ..... 117.00
$1,673.00

Rev. Dr. W. H. Hartz conducted the devotional service. He took as his subject the "Person and Work of the Holy Spirit." A very fine attendance testified to the deep impression made by this speaker in his two previous addresses. A beautiful illustration from the life of the great sculptor Canova, showed how the doctrine of the Holy Spirit fitted all the other doctrines of Christianity. Another illustration from the handling of artillery showed the need of the fire of the Spirit of God. Once more an illustration from Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress emphasized the need of communion. Under the spell of the measured words, each one distinctly pronounced by individual syllables, the reporter momentarily forgot his duty. The things said were so simple that a special view of the Holy Spirit was made clear by the story of the goldsmith who told his customers that he could tell when the silver was pure when it reflected his face. So would men be purified by the fire of the Holy Spirit only when they reflected the face of God. Men, especially Ministers, need to meditate upon the vision of the sixth chapter of Isaiah. Men who have seen the vision and whose lips are touched, are the only men who can say I will go. Here am I, send me.
The Conference was carried to the very foot of the throne of God, as they sang to the tune Lyngham:

Comm. Holy Spirit heavenly Dove,
With all thy quickening powers;
Come shed abroad the Savior's love,
And that shall kindle ours.

A lively discussion took place on Missionary Matters. An objective of $30,000 was finally adopted, with no restrictions on Missions such as had caused the discussion.

AFTERNOON SESSION

A letter was ordered to be sent to Their Excellencies, thanking them for the delightful entertainment of Friday afternoon.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of inflammation, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that your medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give you permission to use my letter."—Mrs. ELMER A. RITCHIE, 82 Rodney St., West St. John, N. B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Ritchie's experience is but one of many.

You might be interested in reading Mrs. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon the "Ailments of Women." You can get a copy free by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Coughing, Ontario.

The Educational Committee reported a decrease of about $100 and total receipts of about $900. This is a poor showing, when it is remembered that Newfoundland has and always must have a very large number of probationers.

The report of the General Conference Commission was read. The bureau of publicity was especially interesting. It provides a telegraphic "flimsy" daily for the Canadian Press and articles for clipping weekly to all dailies in Canada and quarterly for 700 weeklies.

vista was added to the number of candidates for the ministry. He is a B.A. of Mt. Allison and has had a year at the Boston School of Theology.

Rev. Sidney Bennett read the Pastoral Address. As it will appear in full on Thursday no further comment is needed here. One striking sentence will illustrate its vigor and invite perusal of the whole document. "The magnificent victory achieved at the polls by noble courage and righteous determination has been defiantly defeated by the corrupt efforts of legislators."

CONFERENCE SUNDAY

At Gower Street
Gower Street being the Conference Church, the pulpit in the morning was occupied by the President, Rev. Ezra Broughton, whose sermon was based on the words, "Neither did Asher drive out Accho," taken from Judges 1-31. The preacher dealt with the evil that comes from failure to live up to our duties and responsibilities. The service was attended by Veterans, M.G.C.A., Old Comrades, Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, and there was a very large congregation. Miss M. Hutchings rendered a delightful solo—"The Lord is My Shepherd." The Dead March in Saul was played by the Organist, Miss Tait, at the conclusion of the service.

In the evening the preacher was Rev. Millson, representing the Social Service and Moral Reform Department of the Church. He is a dynamic force in the pulpit, and his sermon last night was very effectively delivered. "Be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed" from Romans 12-2, was his text. By simple and effective illustration the preacher showed what was meant by conforming and transforming, and emphasized the need of the transforming power of Jesus Christ in the human soul.

At Cochrane Street
The Love Feast at 10 a.m. was led by Rev. W. H. Dotchon. One of those present was remarking that he was sometimes discouraged at the little he had been able to accomplish when a brother who is one of the pillars of Cochrane Street rose and testified that 51 years ago, under the preaching of the last speaker he had been led to a decision to live the Christian life.

Dr. Liddy's sermon in the morning was especially suitable to the Sunday of Commemoration. The text was so odd that every one was to attention at once, and as several good church workers had never heard of it, it may be as well to remind the whole public that Genesis 4-23 reads: "And Lamech said unto his wives, Ada and Zillah, hear my voice; ye wives of Lamech hearken unto my speech; for I have slain a man for wounding me and a young man who hurt me." Here was the spirit of Militarism and industries were only appreciated as they assisted in war. In the same generation as was Lamech, namely sixth of the family of Adam, was Enoch who walked with God and was not for God took him. These two policies are in the world to-day. The interest roused at the start of this convincing address was never lost. Captain Ayre's troop of scouts were on church parade at this service.

In the afternoon the President and Secretary of Conference directed the union service at Gower and Cochrane Sunday Schools. Gower Street school some 300 strong marched from one church to the other. Mr. Strothard exhibited another aspect of his versatility and sold a football story, and a kind act and several other stories so as to hold the attention of the most restless. The group of stories illustrated the laws of service to our Heavenly King as on that day they were commemorating the services given to the empire.

At night old-fashioned Methodists were carried back to the days of the fathers. The oldest person in the building, (he is 83) was the preacher and for any lack of vigor of language, or gesture or convincing appeal he might have been a David going out to his first battle. It was a wonderful exhibition of vitality. It was a heart warming demonstration of unquenchable fire. It was a note of distinct spirituality. It was as one who had climbed to the topmost truck of a ship caught in a dense surface fog, seeing the harbor headlands over the fog and directing those on deck how to shape the course. The text was the one word "Inasmuch" from Matthew 25.

The special features of the day included a solo by Miss Pike in the anthem, "Lord I love the habitation of Thy dwelling"; Mr. Wylie's solo "Crossing the Bar" and Mr. Hatcher and Miss Pike in "Hark, Hark my Soul." "I heard the voice of Jesus say" was the other anthem. In the afternoon Miss Milley read beautifully a Missionary piece about the result of faithfulness in a small duty.

At Wesley
At the morning service of Wesley Church, Rev. J. W. Winsor delivered a very forceful and inspiring sermon which was based in the text, "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me." In beginning the preacher showed that one of the greatest desires of human nature is for an easy life. Jesus was appealed to by the same desire as seen in the recorded temptations. To have catered to the desire would have diverted Him from the true path of duty. Christ came, the preacher declared, not to make life easy, but to make man great. Unto Christ goodness was never a negative. It was not enough to be good; one must be good for something. Greatness was not Matthew ceasing to be a tax gatherer; but a man of mighty living force for righteousness. So in the case of Paul, J. B. Gough, Moody and others. The purpose to make men great is a divine purpose, and Christ manifested Himself on behalf of man's best interest, and in attaining our best, Christ had no sympathy with ease and slothfulness. Man must encounter obstacles, meet the dominating reverse forces and conquer. Christ helps men to fore their circumstances and to become victorious. He does not withhold from duty. Jesus' idea was to take the field and save humanity. If the Kingdom of our Lord is to be consummated we need to be thoroughly devoted to His cause at all costs and sacrifice. The call is for men of faith, men who will transform the seemingly impossible with opportunity for service.

The evening service was one of Thanksgiving. During the past year, under the auspices of the Trustee, Board a drive was undertaken to liquidate the full amount of indebtedness of the Church. This was successfully accomplished and at last night's service the documents representing a debt of $10,600 were destroyed by seven representatives of the Trustee Board and the Pastor. The preacher for the occasion was Rev. Dr. Liddy, of Sackville, N.B., who took for his text St. John, 19-17, "And Jesus, bearing His cross, went forth." The subject of the discourse was "The task of the Christian Church," which the speaker outlined as follows: 1. To understand the message of Jesus of Nazareth; 2. To develop and protect child life; 3. To emphasize the importance of ideals and sentiments; 4. To combat materialism, practical and theoretical, and his sermon was inspiring and uplifting.

Dr. Liddy's sermon in the morning was especially suitable to the Sunday of Commemoration. The text was so odd that every one was to attention

Besco Reduces Staff

GLACE BAY, June 28.—In conjunction with the closing down of the Sydney Steel Plant for three months, it is reported that sweeping reductions are being made in the official and clerical staff of the Dominion Coal Company. The engineering and construction departments are those chiefly affected. As regards the construction department, a large amount of work which has been in hand for the last couple of years is about finished, consequently the services of a number of officials and workers are not now needed in that department. The colliery staffs are not affected to any extent by the proposed reduction. The company gives as a reason for the change, the existing depression in trade.

The British, French and American officers and men in port were also present. The C. C. C. Band headed the parade. The Cadets turned out in full strength and the Girl Guides were well represented. The Cathedral was thronged. The preacher of the day was the Rev. P. J. Kennedy. His sermon was a masterly effort. The consoling doctrine of the communion of saints was applied to the Newfoundland sailors and soldiers who gave their young lives in sacrifice for King and Country, and there were many tear-dimmed eyes in that congregation ere the preacher finished his masterly and eloquent discourse.
